LAX IN HOME STUDY. High School Pupils Not Doing Satisfactory Amount of Work Out of Class-Plan For Open Night-Recent Debates.

For the past three weeks pupils of the High school have been supplied with study cards, upon which they are to record the amount of time spent out of school in preparing their lessons. Lefore being passed in to the teachers, it was required that all the cards be signed by the parents, thus certallying that the time recovered was

In looking over the cards for the week ending February 19, it was found hours, that only 15 per cent. of the school had spent two hours or more daily in home study, while 24 per cent. of the pullps had spent one hour or less. The remaining 61 per cent. spent between one and two hours daily in outside

The results obtained during the second week were a little more satisfactory, although the time spent in home study was not nearly as great as it should be. During the week ending February 26, only about one firth (21 per cent.) of the school averaged two hours or more daily, whereas 34 per cent, spent less than one hour, and 45 per cent, of the pupils averaged be-tween one and two hours, or between five and ten hours for the week For the last week ending March 5, the results again dropped off, only 16 per cent of the school studying more than two hours a day, and the num-ber of pupils spending one hour or less decreased slightly, from 34 per cent, of the week before to 29 per cent. The percentage of those studying between one and two hours increased 10

The number of pupils studying two or more hours a day is small, while object of the study card is to obtain the parents' cooperation with the
